manuel puig's masterful and ironic detective novel concerns the abduction of a woman an impending murder and the dim memories of a thousand old glamour queens garbo dietrich veronica lake rita hayworth all combining to make a powerful portrait of two decidedly unglamorous lives gladys hebe donofrio a lonely 35 year old sculptor tormented by her fantasies and perpetually in search of the ideal lover and leo druscovich an outwardly confident and successful art critic deeply troubled by a terrible guilt that surfaces in his repeated sexual failures taking on exchanging and growing into the roles of victim and criminal their lives presented through a variety of different kinds of evidence lists scribbled notes transcripts one sided interrogations these two lost souls gradually find themselves entirely dependent on one another and heading towards precisely the sort of violent ending a detective novel demands for many serious readers robert alter writes in his preface the novel still matters and i have tried here to suggest some reasons why that should be so in his wide ranging discussion alter examines the imitation of reality in fiction to find out why mimesis has become problematic yet continues to engage us deeply as readers alter explores very different sorts of novels from the self conscious artifices of Sterne and Nabokov to what seem to be more realistic texts such as those of Dickens Flaubert John Fowles and the early Norman Mailer attention is also given to such individual critics as Edmund Wilson and Alfred Kazin and to current critical schools in alter's essays a particular book or movement or juxtaposition of writers provides the occasion for the exploration of a general intellectual issue the scrutiny of well chosen passages the joining of images or themes or ideas the associative and intuitive processes that lead to the right phrase and the right loop of syntax for the matter at hand all these come together unexpectedly to illuminate both the text in question and the general issue recent discussions of mimesis in fiction generally proceed from a single thesis by contrast motives for fiction offers an empirical approach attempting to define mimesis in its various guises by careful critical readings of a heterogeneous sampling of literary texts intelligent and good humored the book is also old fashioned enough to wonder whether mimesis might not be a task or responsibility to which much contemporary fiction has not proved entirely adequate décio torres cruz approaches connections between literature and cinema partly through issues of gender and identity and partly through issues of reality and representation in doing so he looks at the various ways in which people have thought of the so called cinematic novel tracing the development of that genre concept not only in the french ciné roman and film scenarios but also in novels from the united states england france and latin america the main tendency he identifies is the blending of the cinematic novel with pop literature through allusions to pop art and other postmodern cultural trends his prime exhibits are a number of novels by the argentinian writer manuel puig betrayed by rita hayworth heartbreak tango the buenos aires affair kiss of the spider woman and pubis angelical bringing in suggestive sociocultural and psychoanalytical considerations cruz shows how in puig s hands the cinematic novel resulted in a pop collage of different texts films discourses and narrative devices which fused reality and imagination into dream and desire sub versions of the archive manuel puig s and severo sarduy s alternative identities analyzes recent theories of the archive to examine how manuel puig and severo sarduy reformulate the latin american literary tradition this study focuses on eclectic theories of the archive as both repository and danger drawing from an array of sources both within and outside the hispanic literary tradition from borges foucault arrom derrida gonzález echevarría and guillory to digital media and biotechnology this book also applies theories of cultural contamination maria lugones and symbolic capital pierre bourdieu to the novels of puig and sarduy to explore the representation of marginal cultures within a body of literature that previously altered or elided these subaltern cultures from the tradition through close readings and critical theoretical applications this book demonstrates how archival fiction continues to be one of the most popular strategies among latin american novelists and most importantly how they have successfully managed to find new ways to inscribe their alternative fictions within this tradition puig s and sarduy s novels reproduce discourses popular culture and the mass media that lack prestige within the traditional archive these discourses mirror realities of marginal groups gay people children the poor the illiterate women and racial minorities their cultural variants sub versions of hegemonic masterstories are endowed with truth bearing power for them but were previously left out of the archive as legitimate novelistic models to date this is the only study of contemporary latin american fiction that puts current theories of the archive especially that of roberto gonzález echevarría to practice in such a systematic way riobó s analysis of how puig and sarduy reformulate the latin american canon is both a necessary complement of gonzález echevarría s work and an intelligent answer to the first of his projected masterstories riobó s multidisciplinary approach rebecca biron breaks new ground in this study of masculinity violence and the strategic construction of collective political identities in twentieth century latin american fiction by engaging current sociological psychoanalytic and feminist theories murder and masculinity analyzes the cliché of proving virility through violence against women biron develops her argument through close readings of five works jorge luis borges s la intrusa armonia somer s el despojo clarice lispector s a maca no oscuro manuel puig s the buenos aires affair and reinaldo arenas s el asalto although men murdering women is often interpreted as nothing more than machista misogyny biron argues that the five narratives addressed in this book show that healed masculinities are essential to the achievement of cultural identity and political autonomy in latin america the introduction to this study deftly situates biron s work in relation to previous theoretical arguments on the social and political dimensions of latin american writing the five subsequent chapters offer superb analyses of the individual texts like their male protagonists who experiment with the psychological and legal extremes of gender division these narratives risk nonconformity to the laws of genre in their quest for liberation from violent social and literary conventions in combining elements of detective stories crime narratives psychological case studies and magical or grotesque realism they offer metafictional commentary on a network of discourses that confuses images of masculinity national identity and political autonomy in postcolonial latin america
